

FIRE DESTROYS GREENCASTLE ORPHAN'S HOME

CONFLAGRATION, WHICH PROBABLY STARTED FROM DEFECTIVE FLUE IN ROOF OF $25,000 BUILDING, JUST SOUTH OF VANDALIA STATION, BURNS FOR MORE THAN 3 HOURS—NO FIRE PROTECTION—GIVEN TO CITY BY MRS. MARY A. ALLISON—TO BE REBUILT

Fire, which probably started from a defective flue, destroyed the Greencastle Orphan's Home just south of the Vandalia station on Tuesday evening. The fire started at the roof on the northwest corner of the building and the strong breeze which was blowing spread the conflagration over the entire roof.

Persons in the home discovered the fire at near 5 o'clock. As there was no fire protection, those who discovered the flames were helpless to check them.

The loss which is estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000 is covered by $12,000 insurance. Because of the quickly spreading of the fire, only a part of the contents of the home were saved.

Twenty Two Children in Home
The Greencastle Orphan's Home, given to the Greencastle Orphan's Home Association, Incorporated, by Mrs. Mary A. Allison about 20 years ago, is caring for about 22 orphans at this time.

All of the children were safely removed from the home. The little girls were taken to the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house while the boys were taken to the Phi Gam fraternity house.

Mr. and Mrs. Orison Shirley, superintendent and matron, were in charge of the home. Mr. Shirley stated that the first intimation of the fire by anyone in the home was the discovery of smoke in one of the upstairs rooms.

An investigation developed the fact that a fire was burning in the roof on the northwest corner of the house. As the large brick structure was covered with a tin roof, the flames ate their way under the roof and soon the entire wooden structure of the roof was aflame.

The building being of brick and the roof of tin, the fire spread slowly but surely. Starting at near 5 o'clock the fire burned fiercely until after 8 o'clock. Being outside of the fire limits and with no private fire protection apparatus, there was no method of saving the large building.

Other Buildings are Saved
Out buildings at the west of the home, however, were saved. The wind was from the west and swept the flames away from them.

The building and grounds occupied by the Orphan's Home was given the Greencastle Orphan's Home Association by Mrs. Mary A. Allison, more than 20 years ago. Beside the home and grounds, her gift included sufficient money and land, to give the association an income of near $7,500 a year for its maintenance.

At the time of her gift she personally appointed a board of five trustees, and the incorporation papers provide that this board shall have power to elect members to fill any vacancies. The trustees of the Greencastle Orphan's Home Association at this time are Andrew Durham, William B. Peck, John Keller, Miss Martha Ridpath and Mrs. A. J. Hamrick.

Most Spectacular Fire
Because of the large size of the building and the slowness with which the flames destroyed it, the fire was most spectacular. Hundreds of persons, attracted by the great light made by the fire, soon were on the scene and for three hours hundreds of persons watched the flames. When finally the flames had consumed all of the inflammable materials the huge brick walls and giant chimneys stood as "ghosts" of the once beautiful and homelike residence of Greencastle Orphans.

A meeting of the members of the Board of Trustees was called for Wednesday afternoon, and although nothing definite had been decided upon, individual members of the boards stated that the board probably would arrange to immediately start the erection of a new home.

At the meeting Wednesday, arrangement for caring for the children until the new home is completed will be made. The probability of securing the Catholic School building for temporary quarters was suggested. If this cannot be secured a similar building may be secured. Or if a home large enough to care for all of the children cannot be found, it may be necessary to place them in private homes until it is possible to secure a larger temporary home. It has been suggested that after DePauw is closed for the summer a fraternity house might be secured for the summer home for the children.

Children to Fraternity Houses
No sooner had the news of the fire become known than there were numerous offers of emergency homes for the children. The Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority and the Phi Gam fraternity were the first to offer their homes, and the girls were sent to the Theta House and the boys to the Phi Gam house.

In these houses the little ones unable to realize the seriousness of the fire, had the "biggest" times of their lives Tuesday night and Wednesday. The sorority and fraternity boys arranged movie parties, games, regular "Christmas Dinners" and amusements galore for the homeless children. Wednesday morning they were up early and the University boys and girls "got them ready" and sent them off to school as happy as larks.

GARFIELD HIGH SCHOOL GIVEN SMALL END OF A 28 TO 17 SCORE IN GAME PLAYED TUESDAY NIGHT ON HIGH SCHOOL FLOOR

The Greencastle High School basketball five defeated the Garfield (Terre Haute) team in a fast game played in the local gym Tuesday night. The final score was: Greencastle 28; Garfield, 17.

The game started in a "whirlwind" fashion with Greencastle displaying a fast brand of floor work. Capt. Black of the locals began the scoring by tipping an under the basket shot. A. Allen contributed two field markers and with another by "Cabbage" Black the score was 8 to 0 in favor of the Rheamen before the visitors were able to tally. The Terre Hauteurs began to connect with the goal and from then until the end of the first period the contest was close. The score of the initial half was 13 to 7 with the Greencastle quintet on the long end.

Wheeler opened the scoring of the last period by dropping one in from the side of the floor. The Garfield offense penetrated the local defensive wall and advanced the count to 15-11, which was the nearest the Vigo lads came within striking distance of the Rheamen. At this point of the fray, the Greencastle point-getters began to connect with the basket and from that time the result was undisputed.

Coach Rhea's players recorded fifteen points during the second half and the visitors counted ten.

Side Lights on the Garfield Game

It was a fast game on the part of the Rheamen—quite in contrast to the final game of the County Tourney here last Saturday night.

The crowd was not large. It was the smallest that has witnessed a basketball game played by the local five this season.

Capt. "Cabbage" Black was the outstanding star of the game Tuesday night. His basket-shooting both from field and foul line was noteworthy.

Archie Allen, star center on the Greencastle team, was back in the line-up Tuesday night after a week's illness. Allen played a good game but was a bit off form in basket shooting owing to the after effects of the illness.

Taylor, of the Rheamen, and Bolin of the visitors, were eliminated from the contest during the last half by personal fouls.

Broadstreet, floor guard on the Cloverdale five, witnessed the game in the local gym Tuesday night.

Between the halves, the Greencastle "subs" furnished entertainment by giving an exhibition of basket shooting from near the center of the floor. Harney, a local "sub", recorded eleven straight without missing.

Bryan, who was substituted for Taylor in the last half played a "whale" of a defensive game, while he was in the contest.

When a foul was called on Capt. Black for "ho'ding" "Tubby" Bolin of the Terre Hauteurs asked that he be given the chance to make the free throw. His request was granted. He got "so", tossed the "pig-skin" and missed the entire goal.

The locals played a fine game last night in all departments except one. That is, they were just a little off form in hitting the goal from the field.

Ross Smith, the referee, was every where the ball was last night, and so was his smile. He had some difficulty in keeping out of the way of the players owing to the fastness of the fray.

Archie Allen, although he was not up to his standard of playing last night owing to his recent illness, was the high-point man of the contest. He tallied four fielders counting eight points for his team.

You're on the right road, Greencastle. Let's make it four straight and, then, annex the Sectional tournament.

The body of Albert Hall, age 56 of Terre Haute, who died at the Penal Farm, Monday, was sent to Bloomington, Tuesday, where it will become the property of the Indiana Medical School.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The February number of the High School picture show will be the film version of James M. Barrie's famous novel, "The Little Minister". This is one of the best of the series of shows presented by the local school this year and will be on view in the G. H. S. Auditorium next Monday and Tuesday afternoon and evening. Alice Calhoun, a favorite star, will enact the role of Lady Babbie. The play centers around the life and romance of a clergyman and a gypsy girl in the English village Thrums. The play is full of action and the film is accurately adhered to the novel which makes it one of the season's great productions.

The members of the Purple and Gray basket ball squad, Coach Rhea and Principal Glidewell, were photographed at 11:45 this morning for the Athletic section of the "Annual" the Greencastle High School year book.

A small but appreciative audience heard C. C. Mitchell, author, lecturer and humorist, speak in the High School auditorium at 8 o'clock Tuesday night on "The Millionaire of Us". Mr. Mitchell despised the life of Job as one of the greatest historical dramas. The speaker had a very pleasing manner of delivering his message and those that attended the lecture were well repaid. It was the fourth and last number of the Lecture Course presented here under the auspices of the Senior class.

As the bids were far above the estimate the contract was not let.

LESLIE AND GRIGGS SHINE IN FAST SECOND-HALF DRIVES
OF VISITORS

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 7.—Butler defeated Wabash here tonight in one of the fastest and roughest games seen on the local floor this year, the final count being 31 to 26 in favor of the Bulldogs. The half time found the Little Giants leading, 15 to 14.

Wabash took the lead at the start of the game, running the score to an 8-to-1 count before Butler started hitting the hoop. Leslie then got to going and made three long baskets and the battle was neck and neck until the end of the period, which came with the Scarlet leading by a one-point margin.

Butler Gets Jump
Butler got the jump at the start of the second half and ran the count to 24 to 20 in its favor with nine minutes to go. With five minutes left to play, Coach Vaughan sent in Schanlaub and Pearce and Crane and Schanlaub, registered field goals, tying the count at 24. The game was nip and tuck up to the 26-point mark.

Coach Page sent in Griggs and returned Leslie to the game with five minutes left to go. "Hal" immediately made known his inception into the fray by scoring two field goals and one foul counter during the last four minutes of play and winning the game for the Blue and White.

Leslie was the main scoring strength of the Butler five while Thorn and Crane looked best for the Little Giants.

ILLINOIS DEFEATS PURDUE, 29-28

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 7.—With both teams playing desperately, Illinois defeated Purdue at basket ball here tonight, 29 to 28. The defeat places the Boiler Makers in second position in the Big Ten championship race.

Illinois started by caging two baskets in the first minute of play and held the lead, until near the end of the first half, when Purdue tied, and the score stood 15 to 15 when the gun cracked.

At the start of the last half Gullion made a free throw which placed Purdue in the lead for the first time. On a double foul Carney missed for Illinois but Gullion caged, giving the Boiler Makers a two-point lead.

Illinois Ties Score
Illinois, however, tied the score several times and with but five minutes to go Stillwell and Carney each caged pretty baskets which put Illinois in the lead. Purdue crept up until one point behind, but that was as far as it succeeded in getting when the final gun cracked.

Gullion of Purdue played a stellar game, caging seven baskets, a number from midfield, and eight free throws missing five free throws. Capt. Carney of Illinois saged five throws missing five free throws, making but one out of six attempts.

The body of Mrs. L. C. Bentley, whose sudden death occurred at her home in Anderson, Monday night, will arrive here at 2:30 o'clock, Thursday afternoon by Traction. It will be taken immediately to Forest Hill Cemetery for burial. Mrs. Bentley was formerly Miss Josephine Eads who lived here for some time.

Home Made Whitewash.
To make whitewash put a bushel of lime into a clean wooden tub and pour on it two buckets of boiling water, stirring it all the time. When the lime has been slacked dissolve in the water four pounds of sulphate of zinc and two pounds of coarse salt. These additions are to prevent the whitewash from cracking off. To make the wash cream-colored add two pounds of yellow ochre. From two and a half to three buckets of wash will be needed for a room of ordinary size.

Washing Lace Curtain.
The too frequent washing of lace curtains is one of the mistakes of housekeepers. At intervals of two or even three years may elapse between the launderings. In the "off times" they should be pinned on the clothes lines on a clear, windy day, and allowed to remain until all the dust has been whipped out of them. Then they may be packed away for the summer in a pillow case, which has been dipped in bluing until it is a perfect indigo. By this means they will come out in the fall fresh and crisp.

Hat Straw 100 Years Ago.
In the early part of the last century
there were fewer factories in this country than now, and many things were made by hand which to-day are the work of machinery.
This was especially true of the braid for straw hats. Rye straw was commonly used, although wheat was also in demand. But the rye straw had longer stems and was more easily handled.—St. Nicholas.

A Novel Paper Holder.
We present herewith a sketch of a receptacle for newspapers which can easily be made at home, and which will be found a convenient piece of furniture. Our engraving shows its construction so plainly that any one handy with tools can make one after

it. The back board is two feet nine inches long and one foot wide;
the side pieces are five inches wide;
the front or bottom pieces of the divisions are ten inches and twelve inches wide. The contrivance is put together with one inch finishing nails, and when completed, varnished, painted and otherwise decorated according to individual taste. One of the compartments may be used for dailies, the next for weeklies and the third for monthlies.

Sandals are Becoming.
For women who are blessed with very small feet, there is nothing more becoming than sandals. Mrs. Joseph Widener, of Philadelphia, who is a remarkably beautiful woman, wears them almost entirely in the house.
She has them made to match all her wrappers and tea gowns. Some are made of silk, others of satin, some of kid, and she has two pairs made of white linen and embroidered in white silk. They are very comfortable and restful for the feet. You can slip them on in a minute, and they are most becoming.

Killed By Flea Bite.
A boy in Sydney, Australia, was bitten by a flea from the body of a rat which had died of the plague, and he himself died of the plague.

PHOTOGRAPHS OF LIGHTNING.

Patience and a Camera Are All That Are Required to Get Them.
Any boy or girl who has a camera and a good stock of patience may secure a photograph of lightning, according to St. Nicholas. The patience is needed in waiting for the lightning.
When the sharp "chain lightning" comes, select a window from which you can see well; or, if it is raining, go out of doors and set the camera
on the tripod focused as for a distant view, and pointed toward that quarter of the heavens in which the lightning is most frequent. The diaphragm should be set to the largest opening that is ever used, the slide drawn, and the lens uncovered as for a time exposure. Then follows a wait of one, two, five or even twenty minutes, until a bright flash comes within the field of view of the camera, when the lightning takes its own picture.
Then cover the lens, push in the slide,
and you are ready to try again on a fresh plate.

Industrial Art Pays Best.
"Sargent gets $5,000 for painting a portrait," said a young man in his shirt sleeves. "Well, I got $5,000 last month for designing a vase."
"A millionaire stove manufacturer," he went on, "paid me that large sum, and manufacturers of clocks, vases, of carpets, of wall papers of furniture, are paying to-day sums almost as generous for good designs.
"The American public is the biggest, the most intelligent and the richest public in the world. It demands artistic things—graceful chairs, handsome papers, harmonious rugs and carpets. It is willing to pay unprecedented prices for these things, and to buy in unprecedented quantities. Hence the manufacturers can scarcely get enough designers, and hence the remuneration of these designers is higher than it ever was before."

The Tired Dog.
In Cuba one night during the El Caney affair Gen. Lawton was watching a lot of his soldiers file past and among them he noticed a burly negro corporal, a six-footer, who, in addition to two guns and two full cartridge belts, was carrying a dog. The soldier to whom the extra gun belonged was limping alongside his comrade.
The general halted the overloaded soldier. "Look here," he said; "you marched all night, fought all day and are marching again." "Yes, sah," responded the negro. "Then," said Lawton, "why on earth are you carrying that dog?" "Why, general," said the negro, with a grin, "the dog's tired."

New England's Yellow Day.
There was a dark day May 19, 1880, when New England was steeped in the blackness of midnight all the morning and afternoon. The most famous "yellow day," however, was that of September 6, 1881, when twilight prevailed almost all day. Many remember it, because on that day President Garfield, who was shot by Guitau, was moved from Washington to Elberon, N. J.

Dominica's Boiling Lake.
This curious lake was discovered through a man's losing his way in the surrounding forests and accidentally stumbling upon it. It is not a geyser, but it boils intermittently, sometimes for days at a time. It is very poisonous, and caused the death of a visitor and guide in 1901.

Production of Powdered Milk.

The production of dried and powdered milk is becoming an industry of some importance. The least expensive preparation is made from skim milk and the apparatus is very simple. The powder can be used in making bread, puddings and other articles of human food. The latest mode of making the powder is by evaporation much in the same way as maple sugar is made by the evaporation of sap. The powder is fine and white, and when dissolved in water it resembles milk in appearance and taste. As the powder does not mould or become sour, and the cost is said to be not over half a cent per quart of milk evaporated, there appears to be a chance for a good profit to the manufacturer and an advantage to consumers of milk.

Using Pure Air.

A French savant claims to have discovered that air affects cream very detrimentally on account of the oxygen in it. Perfectly pure air he would have us believe so affects the upper layers of cream that has stood for any time that to get the best results in the matter of flavor these layers must be skimmed off and not used in the making of butter. This is drawing the line very closely and we are not sure that he is right. In fact our scientists have looked into these matters very carefully and are of the opinion that perfectly pure air does not affect cream detrimentally. On the other hand we have discovered that the best remedy for milk fever is to force pure air into the udder with a bicycle pump.

Risks From Disease.

In general the intelligent owner who gives careful attention to certain important points in bee management finds that he very rarely has disease to contend with, and that the reduction of profits through the depredations of bee enemies is not, in most parts of the Union a serious discouragement. Altogether it seems that the risks in these directions are even less in bee keeping than those usually met in the keeping of other animals, which, like bees, are legitimately made to contribute to the wealth of the individual and of the nation.

Inspect for Insect Vermin.

When the fowls look bare and naked about the throat, insect vermin are almost sure to be present in great numbers. Many fowl houses in the country are never properly cleaned out, so that the unfortunate birds that inhabit them, are in a constant state of discomfort owing to the attention of insects.

An Easily Made Drag.

The usual plan in making a "drag" or stone boat, is to have planks specially sawed for the purpose, with one end at an angle with the main part of the plank. It is not always easy to get this done, nor always easy to get a log that will be suitable for the purpose. The cut shows a drag that can be made out of the materials at hand. Fig. 1 shows the rounded front that is cut from a round log of the right size. It is cut away beneath so that the ends of the boards or planks can be nailed or screwed to it, as shown in Fig. 2. This latter cut shows the whole plan of putting the drag together. It can be made of inch boards if desired and otherwise of such light construction that a single horse can easily haul it and its load to the field.

Care and Attention.

Do not begin bee keeping unless with the determination to give it that thought and care which will make it a success. Nothing can be more unprofitable and demoralizing than a neglected apiary.

Reaching the Largest Yield.

Every dairy cow should be fed so as to reach the maximum yield soon after calving and then everything possible should be done to hold her up to a high plane throughout the entire period.

Beware of Obstacles.

Place your bees far enough back from all drives and walks so that they will have distance enough to rise above them before they reach them. There should be no obstacles in front of the hive to prevent the bees from having a clear entrance.

Water Your Horses.

Don't forget to water the horses that are doing heavy work at about 9 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon. How would you like to do without water six or seven hours?

The islands of the world have a total length of more than seventeen times the circumference of the earth at the equator.

The wise man makes few promises and breaks none possible of fulfillment.

DRY FLY FISHING.

Hints to the Angler—How to Entice Big Fish.

Dry fly fishing is very little practiced in this country for the reason that almost all authorities seemed to agree that the wet fly method is the only one suited to our streams. G. M. L. La Branche, in an article in Recreation, declares that a fly "doctored" with a very light application of paraffine is nearly always to be preferred to a wet fly, if an angler once gets "wise" to the right way to cast. A few of the points he emphasizes are as follows:

"If the angler wants big fish—and we all do—the dry fly will take them when nothing else will; but it must be presented properly to the highly 'educated' trout of streams that are much fished. My one great difficulty at the start was a seeming inability to check the impulse to give the fly, after it had alighted, a few spasmodic jerks, thinking to make it look alive. This action is fatal. The small fish will take it, of course, as they will also when it is just floating with the current, but I have never taken a good fish except when my line was quite slack and the fly floating naturally with the current. What is known as the 'drag' also destroys any chance of a rise, but this is not always the fault of the angler. It must be avoided if possible, and the only remedy I can prescribe is practice. If a cast should be bungled, don't become exasperated and snatch the leader and fly off the water in disgust—you court disaster when this is done, for the chances are better than even that you will hang up good and fast in some tree behind you. Permit the fly to drift downstream until it reaches a point nearly opposite you, and then retrieve, and the danger of scaring a fish that you might get on the next cast is minimized.

"The fly should rest on the surface for but an instant, then be lightly whisked off and a false cast or two made in the air to dry it before dropping it again on the water. Each cast must count! If the point of the rod is raised gently at the end of the cast, just before the fly alights, and this elevation continued afterward, the leader will be kept out of water, and the danger of drowning the fly, i. e., drenching it, will be avoided. Care must be taken, however, not to make this action too quick, or a motion will be imparted to the fly which is as unnatural as that caused by the 'drag'."

Volcanoes in the World.

There are 270 active volcanoes in the world, many of them being comparatively small.

THE PERIL OF BEPPINO.

The average hard-working Italian, who is probably the most harmless man on earth, is suffering the consequences of having too many bad countrymen. Though he is harmless the average Italian sometimes does not look it. Just off the job, dusty and unshaven, the brigand loaded with dirks. And in far too many cases Beppino really has a stiletto somewhere on his person. He means no particular harm by carrying it. He wears it very much as the cavalier of the sixteenth century wore a sword.

The weapon-bearing Italian does not know what danger he is in from this practice. Public sentiment was in a measure indifferent to Italian violence so long as it wreaked itself exclusively on Italians. But it was bound to go further than that. The shooting and knifing habit does not discriminate. The murder of policemen, the dynamiting of judges, the stabbing of men on street cars, may sow seed which will bear a fearful harvest of retaliation. The greatest kindness that can be done to the Italian people in this city is to deprive every one of them of concealed weapons.

The King and the Boy.

An amusing anecdote relating to the King's recent stay at Brighton was related last evening by the Rev. Cecil Maunsell, vicar of Thorpe Malsor, to a gathering of his parishioners, who made a presentation to him in celebration of his return from Brighton, where he has been staying for the benefit of his health.

The reverend gentleman, who vouched for the authenticity of the story, said that a few days ago a boy walked up to his Majesty as he was strolling along the esplanade at Howe and said to him:

"Mister, can you tell me the time?"

"Yes, replied the King, taking out his watch; 'it is a quarter to one.'"

The boy then informed his Majesty that he had "been waiting two hours to see the blooming King," adding, "I am not going to wait any longer."

"Neither shall I," replied the King, as he resumed his walk. His Majesty himself, said Mr. Maunsell, afterward related the incident with much gusto.—London Globe.

Nutmeg Poisoning.

Cases of nutmeg poisoning, though rare, are known to have occurred. The death of a boy who had eaten two nutmegs is recorded. The poison is in the oil and the symptoms are giddiness, drowsiness and delirium.—Medical Record.

Lincoln Under Fire.

Capt. Frederick A. Rowe, who fought through the civil war with the Ninety-ninth New York, and is now in the employ of the Post Office here, saw a great deal of Abraham Lincoln during three days in May, 1862. Capt. Rowe says it is not generally known that Lincoln was under fire at that time. He also recalls certain details of the President's visit to the original Monitor that he does not believe are familiar to every one.

The famous battle between the Monitor and Merrimac took place on March 9, 1862, and on May 5 Lincoln Stanton and Chase left Washington to visit the scene of that conflict. On May 7 Lincoln visited the Monitor.

"He went to find out," says Capt. Rowe, "whether the Monitor was willing to fight the Merrimac again. He asked Lieut. Jeffries of the Monitor if his men were afraid of the Southern terror."

"I will show you," said Jeffries. "An order was given for the crew to assemble and Lieut. Jeffries told the men that the President, who stood before them, had heard that they were afraid of the Merrimac."

"Are you timid about the Merrimac?" he asked.

"Just give us a chance at her," shouted the men."

On the afternoon of the same day, Secretaries Stanton and Chase had a great deal of business to attend to and Lincoln was left to his own devices. He wandered from battery to battery, chatting with the men. Captain, then Lieutenant, Rowe was in charge of the Parrott gun at the Rip-raps. Lincoln dropped in on him and expressed great interest in the gun, which was not in very common use at that time.

The next day Lincoln gave orders for soundings to be made preparatory to the landing of troops for an attack on Norfolk. Lincoln, in company with Secretary Stanton and a detachment of troops, went as near shore as possible to watch the soundings.

"The tug," says Capt. Rowe, "was within range of the Rebel batteries, but nobody noticed it at first. The President was very busy watching the soundings, which were being made from a cutter further in shore. After a while, some of the officers saw that shells were striking the water not far from the tug. Suddenly the President looked up and saw that the officers had formed a ring about him. "What's the matter?" he inquired. "We thought you were in danger," explained one of the officers. "Why, I don't think I am any more afraid of the shells than you are," said the President, "but still, for the country's sake, I suppose I had better get out of range."

Witches in Old England.

Three centuries ago the great statute of James I. came into operation. It made felons without benefit of clergy all who "shall use, practice or exercise any injuration or conjuration of any evil and wicked spirit, or shall consult, covenant with, entertain, employ, feed or reward any evil and wicked spirit to or for any intent or purpose or take up any dead man, woman or child out of his, her or their grave or any other place where the dead body resteth, or the skin, bone or any part of any dead person, to be employed or used in any manner of witchcraft, enchantment, charm or sorcery, whereby any person shall be killed, destroyed, wasted, consumed, pined or lamed in his or her body or any part thereof." Under this act witches were executed for more than a century.

Not a Wedding Present.

Congressman Perkins of New York was in the office of a friend, a justice of the peace, when a couple came to be married. After the ceremony the justice accepted a modest fee and handed the bride an umbrella as she went out. Mr. Perkins looked on gravely and asked: "Do you always do that?" "Do what? Marry them? Oh, yes." "No, I mean bestow a present on the bride." "A present? Why, wasn't that her umbrella?" gasped the judge. "No, it was mine," replied the Congressman, sadly.

In the State of Zacatecas, in Mexico, it remained for a woman, Mrs. V. M. Clement, to discover a rich deposit of turquoise, reputed to be the only one in Mexico, while searching for pretty stones on the dump.

The Javanese Death Plant.

The death plant of Java has flowers which continually give off a perfume so powerful as to overcome, if inhaled for any length of time, a full-grown man, and which kills all forms of insect life that come under its influence.

If a Man Buys a Saw

That Holds Its Edge, Cuts Well, Fits His Hand and Balances Just Right, He Develops a Feeling of Friendship for That Particular Saw and Will Use No Other. When It Wears Out He Buys One Just Like It.

THE success of any product, whether that product be a saw, a pound of sugar or a newspaper, depends upon the consumer's (or readers') opinion of it. Hence it follows that the ultimate success of any product or any newspaper depends upon the merit of the article itself.

When manufacturer sells goods on which he has placed his mark of identity (his brand) or publishes a newspaper with his name nailed to its masthead he identifies it. He fixes his own responsibility.

If he wants to make his business permanent and successful he maintains right quality always and if he fails to do this, his first sale will be his last.

A newspaper, like any commodity, varies in quality and value accordingly as the man or men back of it set a standard. The consumer may buy the first time on CHANCE but the next time he buys on SATISFACTION.

Each year an increasing number of the dominant industries of this community who have sought and are seeking the patronage of the people of Greencastle and buying territory adjacent thereto, have placed their advertising in The Greencastle Herald, with its circulation of more than 2,000 prosperous people.
